By any standard, this is a classic of Christian theology. Composed by St. Athanasius in the fourth century, it expounds with simplicity the theological vision defended at the Councils of Nicaea and Constantinople: that the Son of God himself became fully human, so that we might become god. Its influence on all Christian theology thereafter, East and West, ensures its place as one of the few “must read” books for all who want to know more about the Christian faith.

“When I first opened his De Incarnatione I soon discovered I was reading a masterpiece … for only a master mind could have written so deeply on a subject with such classical simplicity.”

— C.S. Lewis, from the Introduction.

Reflections on a Spiritual Journey
JONAH PAFFHAUSEN

This book brings together a short biography of Metropolitan Jonah (Paffhausen) with a collection of his teachings on Christian life. He addresses topics such as: forgiveness and reconciliation; becoming our true selves; shame; the value of suffering; the vision, vocation, and identity of the Orthodox Church in America; creativity and tradition; episcopacy, primacy and the mother churches; and thoughts on a time of crisis and opportunity for the church. Metropolitan Jonah’s words proved inspiring to the All American Council that elected him Primate in 2009. We hope that this collection of his reflections will prove a blessing to the reader.

The Orthodox Profiles Series introduces Orthodox leaders in various ministries and callings that build up the Body of Christ. Most of those featured remain active in the Church, while the influence of those fallen asleep in the Lord remains strong and is worthy of historical record.

Seven Days on the Roads of France
VLADIMIR LOSKY • translated by Michael Donley

This book follows Vladimir Lossky’s attempt to enlist in the French army after the Nazi invasion of France in 1940. It records his reflections on suffering; the true nature of Christian or Western civilization; the rightness or otherwise of war; the problematic relationship between Church and State; what we mean by a ‘nation’, and secularization. Such issues are mulled over, not as arid abstractions, but by someone who, as he walks across an increasingly war-torn landscape, quite literally has his feet on the ground.

A revelation to those who know only Lossky’s more scholarly works—here one discovers his rounded personality, his warm humanity, and his love not only of Christian France but of the West in general.

ORTHODOX PROFILES SERIES, VOL 3
Antony Bashir—Metropolitan & Missionary
CONSTANTINE NASR

Antony Bashir was a man of action and vision, opening churches and establishing the framework for the expansion and growth of today’s Antiochian Orthodox Christian Archdiocese. This biography is a fascinating look behind the scenes at an important period of history in the establishment of the Orthodox faith in America. The complex personality of Antony Bashir and the events that surrounded his episcopacy reveal his frailty, humanity, and his ability to lead with strength and love. The history of the faith cannot be written without understanding the contributions that Antony Bashir made to the foundation and framework of the Orthodox faith in America.

The authors
His Beatitude Jonah Paffhausen is Archbishop of Washington, Metropolitan of All America and Canada, the Primate of the Orthodox Church in America.

Vladimir Lossky was one of the most influential Orthodox thinkers and writers of the twentieth century. • Michael Donley is an expert in French literature.

Economos Constantine Nasr, the ninth generation in his family to be ordained to the priesthood in the Orthodox Church, was personally acquainted with Metropolitan Antony Bashir. He is a noted pastor, author, and lecturer.
Orthodox theology is a living entity today no less than hundreds of years ago. The same questions have always confronted us: What is truth? How can one find joy and peace of heart? What is the way to salvation? Christianity does not aim to dot all the “i”s by answering every question the human spirit asks. But it does open up another reality which transcends all that surrounds us in this earthly life.

In this work Hilarion Alfeyev comments on the teaching of the Orthodox Church, its historical development and relationship to the spiritual life. Drawing on ancient texts and contemporary sources, he provides a clear exposition of the central doctrines of the Church with an exploration of their meaning for today.
The Ascent of Christian Law
Patristic & Byzantine Formulations of a New Civilization

JOHN MCGUCKIN

This work asks the question: "What did Christianity do to build a civilization?" In the present age, law has been used energetically to micro-manage human societies, values and aspirations. But did law work that way in antiquity? Of course, the laws of ancient societies were not as codified as modern law; but even so, could law be a window to the greater question of how the Christians first conceived of civilization, and how they set about managing the changes they wished to bring to it?

This little book is some form of answer. It is a book on law and legal thought as it emerged in formative ages of the Christian past; it asks what the ancient writers and theorists did with law and legal thought. It is part history, part philosophy, and more than anything else an introduction to issues of law and legal adjudication in the Patristic and Byzantine eras.

The Mystery of the Church
A Course in Orthodox Dogmatic Theology

BORIS BOBRINSKOV
Translated by Michael Breck

In this sweeping survey the author traces the Church’s history from her Old Testament roots through her formal establishment under the New Covenant, from the Great Councils to the present. In his enduring devotion to the Orthodox understanding of the work of Christ and the Holy Spirit as “the two hands of the Father,” Fr Bobrinskoy brings his considerable knowledge and experience to bear in witnessing to the One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Church as the instrument of God’s saving grace for all mankind.

In this work, Fr Bobrinskoy has achieved an uncommon balance of exacting scholarship, spiritual depth, and accessibility from which readers at every level are bound to reap great benefit.

THE AUThOR Fr Boris Bobrinskoy, one of the towering figures of 20th-century Orthodox theology, recently retired from St Sergius Institute in Paris, the Institut Supérieur des Études Oecuméniques, and as rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Paris.

THE TRANSLATOR Michael Breck is a translator & publisher focused on theological texts. He resides near Charleston, SC, where he directs a collaborative publishing venture.

The story of St George, embellished from generation to generation, has a larger-than-life hero at its center. He is recognized as the knight who battled a dragon to save a princess, but history paints a more modest picture. Born in the third century, St George was a martyr of the early Church who courageously proclaimed his faith during a period of fierce persecution. Early iconographic art depicts him simply as a soldier, holding the cross of martyrdom.

Over time his icon began to also include a dragon, a white horse, and lance topped by a cross. Through word and image St George became known as a dragon slayer—the hero of a princess and her townspeople. Thus, seeds based in history blossomed into lessons in Christian virtue. What better way to depict courage than a knight on a white horse facing certain death? What better way to depict good overcoming evil than by the Cross of Christ piercing a fire-breathing dragon?

This book beautifully illustrates a beloved tradition, with an Afterword about the interplay between history and hagiography. Using brilliant iconographic images, it carries us into a world of dragons and heroes, and of courageous, victorious love.

Becoming Icons of Christ

MOTHER RAPHAELA

Becoming Icons of Christ, the third in a series of collections of talks and essays by Mother Raphaela, continues the practical and plain-spoken advice on life and growth in Christ introduced and developed in the first two volumes.

“When we find ourselves in our own times of passion, or when we are faced with the passion of others, we have only one way open to us to respond appropriately…we ask Christ to enter our lives, to teach us to pray, and Himself to come, live, and pray within us.

“This way of entering into the life and Passion of Christ is the only way to His Resurrection—our own personal transfiguration by the life of God. And only as we are thus transfigured will we become icons—not icons of our own righteousness and suffering, nor of our own strength, virtue, truth, and courage, but icons of the love, the power, and the peace of God.”

Harp of Glory — Enzira Sebhat
POPULAR PATRISTICS SERIES NUMBER 39
Translated by John A. McGuckin

The Harp of Glory is a major hymn sounding the praises of the Theotokos, from the heart of the Ethiopian Orthodox Church in its Golden Age. It is a text hardly known in the Orthodox or Western churches, even though it is truly a religious and literary treasure of world significance. It approaches closely to the character and genius of the Byzantine Akathist to the Mother of God (which it seems to know in part) but is so profoundly rooted in a different indigenous experience that it surely deserves the title of “An African Akathist.”

On the Holy Spirit
POPULAR PATRISTICS SERIES NUMBER 42
Translated by Stephen M. Hildebrand

On the Holy Spirit is a classic expression of the Church’s faith in the Spirit and a lasting testimony to St Basil’s Christian erudition. In the words of St Gregory the Theologian, St Basil’s treatise was “written by a pen borrowed from the Spirit’s store.”

This work sets forth the distinction of the divine Persons, and their perpetual communion and conjunction. It talks also about the nature of theological language, and the theological significance of the Church’s tradition of worship and proclamation. Although the book was written for St Basil’s fourth-century contemporaries, its message is valid for all ages.

Our POPULAR PATRISTICS SERIES provides readable and accurate translations of a wide range of early Christian literature to a wide audience—students of Christian history to lay Christians reading for spiritual benefit. Recognized scholars in their fields provide short but comprehensive and clear introductions to the material.
On the Two Ways
Life or Death, Light or Darkness: Foundational Texts from the Tradition
POPULAR PATRISTICS SERIES NUMBER 41
Translated by Alistair Stewart
In the early years of Judaism and Christianity their adherents saw that life presents us with a choice between two ways: good¬ness or evil. This book contains presentations of these two ways across the centuries. Each version is accompanied by an intro¬duction, placing each motif in its historical and literary context.

Divine Eros
Hymns of St Symeon the New Theologian
POPULAR PATRISTICS SERIES NUMBER 40
Translated by Daniel Griggs
These Hymns are spiritual reading at its best: an interpretation of life and the relationship with God in the light of Scripture and the Fathers. Symeon makes the doctrines of the Fathers relevant to the individual, all the more so for the poetic beauty with which they are written.

Byzantine Liturgical Reform
ORTHODOX LITURGY SERIES, BOOK TWO
THOMAS POTT
Thomas Pott demonstrates that deliberate liturgical reform, as distinguished from the organic development of liturgical tradition, is nothing new in the Byzantine rite. He examines four examples of reform, focusing on the theological rationale underlying each case.

Epistle of Saint James • Introduction by Rod Dreher
This pastoral commentary on the Epistle of St James offers readers a clear explanation of the Saint’s influential letter. It is appropriate for personal and group biblical study, spiritual guidance, and serves as a useful aid to pastors in teaching and preparation of homilies.

St Paul’s Epistle to the Romans
Written with the average lay reader in mind, this pastoral commentary on Romans offers a clear explanation of the Apostle’s influential and controversial letter. Quotations from church fathers parallel Scripture to create a methodology consistent with Orthodox tradition.

The Epistle to the Hebrews
This commentary is for anyone seeking an Orthodox perspective on the Epistle. Frequent mention is made of the readings in the Church’s liturgical celebrations, and therefore the work is particularly useful for those responsible for preaching and teaching in the Church.

Feminism in Christianity
An Orthodox Christian Response
DEBORAH MALADY BELONICK

Living Orthodoxy in the Modern World
ANDREW WALKER & COSTA CARRAS, eds.
Preface by Patriarch Bartholomew
Distinguished contributors include Metropolitan Anthony Bloom, Bishop Kallistos Ware, Andrew Louth, Metropolitan John Zizioulas, Gillian Crow, Sister Magdalen, & Dr Jamie Moran.

Christ in Eastern Christian Thought
JOHN MJEYENDOFF
This major study of Byzantine Christology is at the same time a study of the Orthodox understanding of man and his salvation. Meyendorff states that “man is truly man when he participates in divine life.”

Sacrament of Love
PAUL EVDOKIMOV
A unique reflection on marriage and celibacy. This work places the relationship of man and woman within the context of the Trinitarian communion between the Divine Persons.

Woman & Salvation
PAUL EVDOKIMOV
In this daring and speculative work, Evdokimov challenges contemporary Christianity to face up to its androcentrism. He sees the solution in a rediscovery of an authentic Christian anthropology, one that sees males and females as complementary, yet with distinct charisms and vocations.

The Life in Christ
NICHOLAS CABASILAS
This work is a remarkable product of Byzantium’s last great flowering of theology. At a time when secular humanism was increasingly asserting man’s complete autonomy, Cabasilas proclaimed that man’s true life lies not in himself, but in Christ.

Liturgy and Tradition
ALEXANDER SCHMEMANN
This collection of essays by the preeminent Orthodox theologian is intended as a companion volume to his Introduction to Liturgical Theology. Here can be traced the development of his thought, particularly his increasingly precise articulation of the nature and method of liturgical theology.

Unseen Warfare
NICODEMUS OF THE HOLY MOUNTAIN
Rich in its references to the teachings of the saints and Fathers, Unseen Warfare combines the insights of West and East on that spiritual combat which is the road to perfection and the stripping away of all that militates against it.

The Bible and the Holy Fathers
Johanna Manley, editor
Based on the sequence of daily scriptural readings (NKIV) from the liturgical calendar of the Orthodox Christian Church, this resource includes comments from the church fathers on each Epistle and Gospel passage. Sections of the Old Testament are also included to support the church lectionary for major feast days, Great Lent, and Holy Week. Additionally, writings from contemporary Orthodox theologians and scholars are included.
